

I would like to ask that the FCC not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Before the Privacy law, I used to receive 20-30 calls per week, many at hours I consider unacceptable, such as dinner time, homework with children, and up to and even after my children's bed time. Despite my repeated requests not to be called, I continued to receive these unwanted calls. Since I joined the "no-call" list, I have not received any unwanted calls. I am thankful that Indiana considers its resident's family time very important, and enacted the Telephone Privacy law. Any weakening of the law will negatively impact the lives of thousands of consumers. I ask you to please protect our law. Thank you.
